
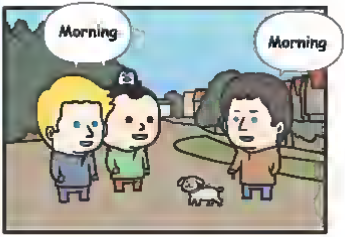
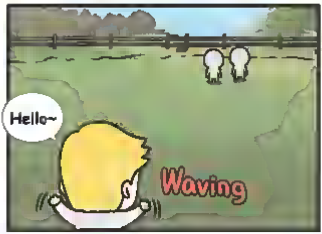
Not all the time but it's sometimes polite to say 'hello' to a stranger on the street in this country.



So I often greet a stranger on the street like this.

However I felt about it,
Mev tried waving at people again.



Wave your hand please.

I've been good at greeting people ever since I was a child but...

... I can't be as good as Mev.

I already knew that he was good at this when we lived in Korea but I can finally tell he's special after we moved to England.

When they were not far enough from us,...

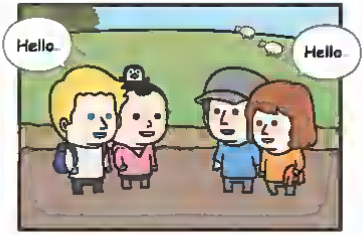
... I was embarrassed
by their response.



We met people o few times
while we were climbing on the hills
so we greeted each other but the problem wasn't here.

It was this kind of far distance greeting.

Well, still it was OK
if the strangers were very far from us.

Uhh...

Uh...?

Whew~ I'm glad that no one was hurt

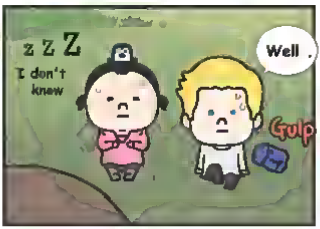
... ??



What a comedy!?

I think I can understand his mind that he wants to share familiarity with people but...

.. I wished he wouldn't do that any more.

The weather was great last weekend.

So we went to Bakewell which is a little far from our home to go hiking.
